

TROPICAL STORM IDA

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE --- November 9, 2009; 11:00 a.m. --- The Louis Armstrong New Orleans International Airport is continuing to operate under a Tropical Storm Warning.

Currently, American Airlines is the only airline that has announced schedule changes. All departures will operate today but the early morning Tuesday departures are canceled. American's first departure on Tuesday will be at 9:50 a.m.

No other airlines have announced schedule changes and continue to monitor weather conditions.

Passengers are encouraged to check with their airlines via the web site or reservation systems prior to coming to the airport for the status of their flight.

For the latest flight information, refer to your airlines' web site or reservations number or the Airport's web site at www.flymsy.com.
