

Louis Armstrong New Orleans International Airport To Host Louisiana Honor Air Flights

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE – September 25, 2009 (New Orleans, LA) Tomorrow, Louis Armstrong New Orleans International Airport will host the first of three flights by Louisiana Honor Air.

Louisiana HonorAir is an organization of local people who's mission is to provide every WWII veteran, who is physically able to travel, the opportunity to view their World War II Memorial in Washington D.C. for the first time. The World War II Memorial was dedicated in 2004 for a generation who's youngest member is in their late seventies. Many of the men and women who fought and sacrificed for our country have not had the opportunity, or ability, to visit.

The public is invited to come to the Airport and welcome the veterans home from this trip. Veterans can be welcomed home in the East Lobby between Concourses A & B. Please arrive by 8:00 pm. Bring in your parking ticket for validation and don't forget your flag to wave.

The Louisiana Honor Air Flights will operate on September 26, October 10 and October 24 with all flights returning to New Orleans around 8:00 p.m.
